ELLISON GETS OUT OF RACE

WITHDRAWS AS CANDIDATE FOR SUPREME COURT.

SEE MOVE FOR GANTT

Mexico Jurist Remains As Sole Opponent Of Colonel Ristine Who Is Backed By City Organizations.

George Robb Ellison, prominent Maryville attorney, has announced his withdrawal from the race for the Democratic nomination for judge of the Missouri Supreme Court.

Mr. Ellison, who was the first Democrat to enter the race, has made an extensive campaign in Missouri during the last two months. Failure of his candidacy to "develop sufficient strength" prompted his action, Mr. Ellison said.

Democratic leaders, however, see in the action a move to unite the country vote behind Judge E. S. Gantt of Mexico, who now will be the only opponent of Col. Carl Ristine of Lexington in the primary election. Ristine has the support of the domiffant city organizations and the friends of W. W. Graves of the supreme court:

In his statement withdrawing from the supreme court race, Mr. Ellison said:

"I have determined not to file as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for supreme court judge. After a rather extensive canvass of the state I am convinced that my candidacy has not developed sufficient strength to warrant my continuance in the contest. In the circumstances the further prosecution of it would be an imposition on many old and new friends who have favored me with their encouragement and help. To them I am deeply grateful. I have derived both pleasure and profit from the campaign—from seeing our great state, and meeting its fine people—and do not regret the effort."

Large Classes Are Confirmed by Bishop

Bishop Gilfillan conducted the rites at St. Mary's church at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning. Over fifty were confirmed in this class. Following the confirmation services in Maryville Bishop Gilfillan went to Burlington Junction, where he confirmed a class at St. Benedict's Church at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Those in the confirmation class at St. Patrick's Church were:

AN EXAMPLE IN AN IDEAL

"AMERICA'S PAST IS LESSON FOR ALL."

WARS FOR FREEDOM

Nation Has Taught its Youth Patriotism And Loyalty, Judge Dawson Says In Address Yesterday.

Taking a lesson from the past, American citizens can look to the future with optimism, pride and security, Judge John M. Dawson told those at the Memorial Day program in the courthouse yard yesterday afternoon.

America, he said, has and always shall continue to produce citizens who are capable of meeting any and all emergencies so long as its people remain true to the ideals of this great democracy.

While the statesmen of the world looked on in doubt, thirteen struggling colonies inaugurated a democracy that is now an example to all the nations who once believed that self-government was a Utopian ideal, Judge Dawson said.

During the short existence of this nation, it has engaged in six wars—"all for the cause of freedom," the jurist reminded his hearers.

"First, it was a war for it's own freedom and the world stood aghast while this new republic fought for its liberty. Then America fought in 1812 and the seas were free. Again in 1848 America was engaged in war, this time for the freedom of Texas. Then came the Civil War when fathers fought against sons and brother against brother. When the smoke of battle had cleared away, a race was free. In 1898, Cuba was being oppressed by the Spanish. America came to the aid of the little island and soon the Spanish were defeated and Cuba was free.

Americans Surprise World.

"Then came the World War. The military leaders admitted that American money would help the allies but doubted if troops from the United States could be trained in sufficient time to be of any assistance in the fight against the central powers. But America proved to all the world that its young men, imbued with this great ideal of democracy, could turn the tide of victory."

America has taught its youth patriotism and loyalty to country, Judge Dawson continued. Although the history of the world has been a history of battles, all sincerely hope that the day will come when differences between nations can be settled by diplomatic combat instead of a combat of armies.

Ideal to Other Nations.

"This American ideal has spread to the other nations of the world and they are beginning to think that it is the man himself who makes his own destiny. The thinker becomes the great statesman of his day.

"On this Memorial Day, we should take a lesson from those who have given their lives for this great country of ours. This willingness of sacrifice is a part of the great American ideal and we should be glad to pay tribute on days like this to those who have given their all for country."

679 REGISTER ON FIRST DAY

S. T. C. SUMMER ENROLLMENT IS OFF TO GOOD START.

TO WORK TOMORROW

Fewer Have Paid Fees Than Same Time Last Year But More Than Year Before Last.

Six hundred eighty-nine students had registered for the summer term at the State Teachers College at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Last year the first day enrollment was 890, but that set a new record. The first day enrollment year before last was 612. There were a larger number of students waiting to pay fees today after they had arranged courses.

Registration started early this morning and by 9 o'clock a long line of students was formed at the registrars office and the old girls' gymnasium, where courses were being made out, was packed. More than 400 students had completed registration before 11 o'clock.

Registration was carried out in a systematic manner. Course cards were made out in the gymnasium under the supervision of faculty members from each department at the College. Students paid their matriculation fee in the office of M. E. Selecman, director of information, and then complete registration in the main office of the College.

An estimate on the total registration is not available. Indications are that it will be large, but it is not known how many students will arrive late for matriculation.

All of the registration was supposed to be completed by tonight and class work will begin tomorrow morning. It is likely, however, that there will be a large number of students who will enroll for the summer quarter tomorrow and Wednesday.

Class periods will be 50 minutes long during the summer quarter. The first class will start at 7:30 o'clock in the morning, and all classes will meet five times a week.

Mrs. Kansteiner will leave on the afternoon train.

Oil Well Reaches Depth of 537 Feet

Conditions On Quitman Test Are Reported Still Good, With Drill Again In Hard Limestone And Shale.

A depth of 537 feet had been attained at noon today at the test well being drilled by the Quitman Oil and Gas Co. The drill at this time was in hard limestone.

The drilling had been in shale and hard limestone for the last twelve hours and previous to that passed through seventy-five feet of a dark shale. G. H. Rose, in charge of the drilling, reported conditions still good. He stated that rain would interfere with the sinking of the well.

A large crowd visited the site of the well Sunday and evidenced much interest in the operations.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Arnold of Kansas City, who motored here Saturday to visit the former's sister, Mrs. Martin Lewis, sr., and family, returned home today. They were accompanied home by Miss Mary Lewis for a short visit.

Chilton Robinson left this morning for Des Moines, Ia., where he will attend the commencement exercises of Drake University. He will be gone two weeks.

The suit was for $250 damages as a result of an auto collision. The case went to the jury about 6 o'clock Saturday evening.

Directors of Civic Body Pledge Support to Inter-Church Activity.—The Daily Program.

Maryville's sixth annual Daily Vacation Bible school opened this morning with a first day enrollment which totaled hardly half of the number who took the four weeks course last year.

Forty-six boys and girls were present for the opening of the classes, which are held at the High School building. Last year the enrollment kept growing until it reached 104, and the inter-church committee in charge of the school hopes for a big increase tomorrow.

The work of the Daily Vacation Bible School was unanimously indorsed by the board of directors of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce at its regular meeting today noon. Those in charge of the school were highly commended and the support of the Chamber of Commerce pledged in making the work a success. The purposes of the school were explained to the directors by Dr. C. C. James, who is in charge this year.

The Daily Program.

The school opens each morning at 9 o'clock with ten minutes of worship, including a song, prayer and a short Scripture reading. The rest of the daily schedule is as follows:

10:25-11:30—Craft work. The intermediate girls will make lamp shades, reed baskets, polychrome and other hand work. The junior girls will be occupied with sewing. FARM RELIEF HOPES FADING

SENATOR NYE LOOKS FOR USELESS MEASURE.

PLANNING NEW DRIVE

"Phantom Fillibuster" Blocks Way But Author Of Migratory Bird Bill Will Displace It.

Washington, May 31.—With farm relief legislation on the horizon, farm bloc leaders today planned a powerful drive in the Senate tomorrow to dispel the "Phantom fillibuster" that has delayed consideration of the Haugen stabilization bill nearly two weeks.

Senator McNary, Republican of Oregon, co-author, of the Haugen bill, leading the drive, declared today he would carry out his threat to displace the migratory bird bill, the apparent object of the fillibuster, if it is not voted Tuesday or Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the Senate is scheduled to vote for cloture on the bird bill at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon after eighteen farm members petitioned Saturday for the drastic action.

"We are entering a new week without any assurance that the farm bill will come up," McNary declared.

Congress' apparent indifference to the farm problems has aroused irate western Senators to criticism on numerous recent occassions.

Recognition of the current fillibuster brought down the wrath of Senator Gerald P. Nye, Republican of North Dakota.

"I am utterly disgusted with the way the farm problem has been shuffled about and played with this session," Nye declared. "What interest most Senators do show in it is a blind behind which they can hide in the Congressional elections. I fully expect that whatever action is taken this session will result in farm legislation that will be no earthly good to the farmers."

A PROMISE OF PEACE TO ALL

BUT COOLIDGE WARNS OF WAR-LIKE ACTIVITIES.

EYES TOWARD EUROPE

President Says Nations Need Loss Of Competition Of Armies And More Of Good Will.

(The complete text of President Coolidge's address can be found on Page 2 of today's issue).

Arlington Cemetery, Va., May 31.—In the great marble amphitheater that gleams jewel-like in the Virginia hills and near the eternal resting places of American war dead, President Coolidge broadcast to the world today a promise of peace and a message of admonition.

His promise was of America's peaceful intent toward all nations. His admonition was spoken with eyes turned Europeward where, he said, the nations need less of competition of armies and navies and more of the will to keep the peace.

Veterans of all the wars America has engaged in during the last half-century comprised the President's audience. The faded blue uniforms of the war between the states mingled with the newer khaki of the World War.

Out beyond the living audience that filled the great marble palace was another audience composed of small white headstones marching away as far as the eye could see from the stage where he stood. It was to these of this audience of the dead that Mr. Coolidge declared that America had never fought a war for a wrong cause.

"Our military operations have been in the cause of humanity," he said. "The principles for which they have been fought have more and more come to be accepted as the ultimate status of the world. They have been of towering substances which are not weakening but only strengthening by the contemplation of reason."

Senator Underwood Is Respected by All

By SHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

Washington—Never came lawmaker to Washington who was more generally beloved of his associates than Senator Underwood.

And Underwood, liked by everybody, quits for good when the 69th Congress ends.

Nominally Underwood is retiring voluntarily from public life. He announced some time ago that he wouldn't be a candidate this year or later.

But nobody's fooled. It isn't much of a secret that he knows he couldn't get a renomination. He can see the writing on the wall in letters a foot high. Such being the case, the wise policy for him, naturally, is not to try.

Underwood has convictions that don't go down, in these times, in his state and he refuses to compromise. That, in itself, stamps him as an individual of honesty and nerve. You may not agree with him in all respects but you've got to recognize him as a character who stands or falls by what he thinks right.

What Other Editors Say

CRIME AND LEGISLATURE.

"It is no exaggeration to say that the Missouri method of dealing with the crime plague has become the model of our nation," says Mr. Guy A. Thompson, chairman of the Survey Committee of the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice, in a report to the Board of Directors. He is well within the truth. Missouri, in its state-wide crime survey, has started a movement which has attracted attention and approval throughout the country, and the system created here is being adopted and applied in other states, as well as by the National Crime Commission. Missouri has led, and is leading, the way in the great and necessary effort to reduce crime, because it has gone about it in a sensible and thorough manner that appeals strongly to the general intelligence.

But it is important to understand that the great work done by the Missouri Association is a preparation, not a conclusion; that the survey, essential as it is, has no value in itself, but is only a preliminary to constructive action. Unless it leads to action, unless the information it contains, and the recommendations based upon the information, are translated into legislative enactments that will effect the necessary changes in the statutes to make criminal law and procedure more effective in the prevention of crime, the survey is nothing more than an interesting collection of facts assembled at great cost and labor to no material end.

The survey shows in cold statistics the harrowing extent of crime in this state, it shows the defects in our legal system which are the primary cause of crime conditions, and it shows or suggests the ways in which these defects may be remedied. But the power to apply these, or any remedies, rests with the Legislature. If the Legislature ignores the survey, or does nothing with it, its purpose will be defeated, and crime conditions will continue as they are or grow worse. Obviously, then, the effectiveness of the entire work of the Crime Commission depends upon the attitude of the Legislature towards the work. And that attitude, of course, depends upon the knowledge of the work among the members of the Legislature, upon their interest in the purposes of the work, and their reaction to its suggestions.

To be effective, therefore, the work and purpose must secure the support and interest of the members of the Legislature, and that is the crucial task before the commission. And we think it should have strong and general public backing in this effort. This matter of the prevalence of crime vitally concerns the whole state. While it is most conspiciously manifest in the cities, it is no less a menace to the security of life and property in the country. The facilities as well as the incentives to crime are increasing, and the law as it now operates is a standing invitation to criminal activities. Organized crime prospers under it, and its marauders in their high power cars can descend upon distant communities, rob or murder and escape with ease. The country cannot afford to look with indifference upon crime. Everywhere it is a local as well as a general problem. And it can only be effectively attacked by the 'simplification and clarification of our criminal laws," as Mr. Thompson expresses it, "to the end that there shall be swift and certain punishment of the guilty." The people of the counties should see to it that their representatives in the Legislature realize the need for action in this matter.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

LODGINGSS.

Henry Ford, one of the world's richest men, finds his greatest joy in a simple little old inn, gray with age, mossy with time in the hills of Massachusetts.

Few pictures of the maker of pig my cars have been taken in late months that did not find him in the inn. Sitting in an ingle nook surrounded by warming pans, blowers and all the insignia of a fireside's past, walking over silent paths about the inn, or eating simple fare from check-clothed table.

Henry Ford's return to the life simple is no strange thing. Listen to the talk of any group of rich men lunching at their club on guinea breast and mushrooms, smoking dollar cigars—

"I've got my eye on a simple little place in the country," says one.

"I'm trying to buy back the old farm, swimming hole 'n' everything," says another.

"What do we get out of this sort of life, anyway?" says the third. "Did you ever wade a creek when you were a kid and pick apples in an orchard?"

Now that spring is here, Sunday after Sunday a steady pilgrimage of cars, rich, glistening, high-powered flying cars glide on to the common Mecca—the country.

Rich men, potentate, mogul, fly on in an aura of dust and gasoline to find that symbol of happiness—the country, the simple life, a world where apple blossoms fall like coral from fresh-leaved trees, where sun and moon and stars shine cleaner, where—just on into the land where things seem not what they are.

The farmers laughs. What do these folks know of his life—of the grueling toil, its risings, groggy with sleep, into dark morning, its days a round of toil and more toil to wrest a living from the soil, little time, little thought for blossom and bird, sun and moon.

Just the old story of the quest eternal for happiness in the lot we do not own. Just the old story of regret for the thing that was, the realization when the old swimming hole days are over, that after all they were the only days. Then they were days of longing for the big city and the "world outside."

But now—the president of the United States and his wife will summer in a tiny little simple cottage hugging the slopes of the Adirondacks above Lake Placid.

This is the summum bonum of the greatest man in the land—the straying from the white portals of the most famous house in the land into a simple little cot.

And the dwellers of the mountain and lake look with envy upon a man who comes from a great white house in a great city.—Cape Girardeau Southeast Missourian.

"PEACE IS GREATEST WORK OF AMERICAN NATION"-COOLIDGE

OURS NOT WARLIKE NATION, HE TELLS MEMORIAL AUDIENCE

SPIRIT IS STILL HERE

Government Owes Duty To Its Citizens And This Explains Economy Policy, President Declares.

Arlington, Va., May 31.—In his address at the memorial exercises here this afternoon, President Coolidge spoke as follows:

"Fellow Americans:

"This Nation approaches no ceremony with such universal sanction as that which is held in commemoration over the graves of those who have performed military duty. In our respect for the living and our reverence for the dead, in the unbounded treasure which we have poured out in bounties, in the continual requiem services which we have held, America at least has demonstrated that republics are not ungrateful. It is one of the glories of our country that so long as we remain faithful to the cause of justice and truth and liberty, this action will continue. We have waged no wars to determine a succession, establish a dynasty, or glorify a reigning house. Our military operations have been for the service of the cause of humanity. The principles on which they have been fought have more and more come to be accepted as the ultimate standards o fthe world. They have been of an enduring substance, which is not weakened but only strengthened by the passage of time and the contemplation of reason.

"Our experience in that respect ought not to lead us too hastily to assume that we have been therefore better than other people, but certainly we have been more fortunate. We came on the stage at a later time, so that this country had presented to it, already attained, a civilization that other countries had secured only as a result of a long and painful struggle. Of the various races of which we are composed, substantially all have a history for making warfare which it is oftentimes hard to justify, as they have come up through various degrees of development. They bore this burden in ages past in order that this country might be freed from it. Under the cureumstances it behooves us to look on their record of advance through great difficulties with much compassion and be thankful that we have been spared from a like experience, and out of our compassion and our thankfulness constantly to remember that because of greater advantages and opportunities we are charged with superior duties and obligations. Perhaps no country on earth has greater responsibilities than America.

Nation Not Warlike.

"Notwithstanding all the honor which this country has bestowed upon the living and all the reverence that has marked its attitude toward the dead who have served us in a military capacity, we are not a warlike Nation. As a people we have not sought military glory. Because of our fortunate circumstances, such wars as we have waged have been for the purpose of securing conditions under which peace would be more permanent, liberty would be more secure, and justice would be more certain. It was this principle that peculiarly characterized the forces who acknowledged as their commander in chief Abraham Lincoln.

"While this day was legally established many years ago as an occasion to be devoted to the memory of our country's dead, it can not but each year refresh the sentiment of respect and honor in which our country holds their living comrades. Of those great armies that maintained the long struggle from 1861 to 1865, which ranked in size with any the world had ever before seen, but a few shattered ranks now remain. The old valor yet lives. The old devotion to country, the old loyalty to the flag remain. But the youth and physical vigor which caused them to be characterized as the boys in blue are gone from these heroes of a former generation.

Spirit Still Here.

"But the spirit which they so nobly represented two generations ago has not departed from the land. It was resurgent in the days of 1898 and in 1917, and finds a lineal succession in the three branches which make up the land and sea forces of the present day and in the public opinion of the people. Our country has never had a better-equipped Army or a more efficient Navy in time of peace than it has at the present time. The Air Service is being perfected, better quarters are being provided, and our whole military establishment is being made worthy of the power and dignity of this great Nation. We realize that national security and national defense can not be safely neglected. To do so is to put in peril our domestic tranquility and jeopardize our respect and standing among the other nations.

"Yet the American forces are distinctly the forces of peace. They are the guaranties of that order and tranquility in this part of the world, which is alike beneficial to us and all the other nations. Everyone knows that we covet no territory, we entertain no imperialistic designs, we harbor no enmity toward any other people. We seek no revenge, we nurse no grievances, we have inflicted no injuries, and we fear no enemies. Our ways are the ways of peace.

"We are attempting to make our contribution to the peace of the world, not in any sensational or spectacular way but by the application of practical, workable, seasoned methods and an appeal to the common sense of mankind. We do not rely upon the threat of force in our international relations or in our attempt to maintain our position in the world. We have seen force tried, but the more people study its results the more they must be convinced that on the whole it has failed. Conditions sometimes arise where it seems that an appeal to arms is inevitable, but such conflicts decide very little. In the end it is necessary to make an appeal to reason, and until adjustments are reached by covenants which harmonize with the prevailing sense of justice a final solution has not been found.

Emphasis On Peace.

"Ever since the last great conflict the world has been putting a renewed emphasis, not on preparation to succeed in war, but on an attempt by preventing war to succeed in peace. This movement has the full and complete approbation of the American Government and the American people. While we have been unwilling to interfere in the political relationship of other countries and have consistently refrained from intervening except when our help has been sought and we have felt that it could be effectively given, we have signified our willingness to become associated with other nations in a practical plan for promoting international justice through the World Court. Such a tribunal furnishes a method of the adjustment of international differences in accordance with our treaty rights and under the generally accepted rules of international law. When questions arise which all parties agree ought to be adjudicated but which do not yield to the ordinary methods of diplomacy, here is a forum to which the parties may voluntarily repair in the consciousness that their dignity suffers no diminution and that their cause will be determined impartially, according to the law and the evidence. That is a sensible, direct, efficient, and practical method of adjusting differences which can not fail to appeal to the intelligence of the American people.

"But while we put our trust not on force but on a reign of law and the administration of justice, yet we know that the maintenance of peace can not but to a large extent be dependent upon our sentiments and desires. In spite of all the treaties we may make and all the tribunals we may establish, unless we maintain a public opinion devoted to peace we can not escape the ravages of war. A determination to do right will be more effective than all our treaties and courts, all our armies and fleets. A peaceful people will have peace, but a warlike people can not escape war.

Peace has an economic foundation to which too little attention has been given. No student can doubt that it was to a large extent the economic condition of Europe that drove those overburdened countries headlong into the World War. They were engaged in maintaining competitive armaments. If one country laid the keel of one warship, some other country considered it necessary to lay the keel of two warships. If one country enrolled a regiment, some other country enrolled three regiments. Whole peoples were armed and drilled and trained to the detriment of their industrial life, and charged and taxed and assessed until the burden could no longer be borne. Nations cracked under the load and sought relief from the intolerable pressure by pillaging each other. It was to avoid a repetition of such a catastrophe that our Government proposed and brought to a successful conclusion the Washington Conference for the Limitation of Naval Armaments. We have been altogether desirous of an extension of this principle and for that purpose have sent our delegates to a preliminary conference of nations now sitting at Geneva. Out of that conference we expect some practical results. We believe that other nations ought to join with us in laying aside their suspicions and hatreds sufficiently to agree among themselves upon methods of mutual relief from the necessity of the maintenance of great land and sea forces. This can not be done if we constantly have in mind the resort to war for the redress of wrongs and the enforcements of rights. Europe has the League of Nations. That ought to be able to provide those countries with certain political guaranties which our country does not require. Besides this there is the World Court, which can certainly be used for the determination of all justiciable disputes. We should not underestimate the difficulties of European nations, or fail to extend to them the highest degree of patience and the most sympathetic consideration. But we can not fail to assert our conviction that they are in great need of further limitation of armaments and our determination to lend them every assistance in the solution of their problems. We have entered the conference with the utmost good faith on our part and in the sincere belief that it represents the utmost good faith on their part. We want to see the problems that are there presented stripped of all technicalities and met and solved in a way that will secure practical results. We stand ready to give our support to every effort that is made in that direction.

Government Owes Duty.

"While we are thus desirous of the economic welfare of other countries in part because of its relation to world peace, we ought to remember that our own Government owes a great duty to the American people in this direction. It is for this reason in part that I have insisted upon a policy of constructive economy in the national administration. If we can make the circumstances of the people easy, if we can relieve them of the burden of heavy taxation, we shall have contributed to that contentment and peace of mind which will go far to render them immune from any envious inclination toward other countries. If the people prosper in their business, they will be the less likely to resort to the irritating methods of competition in foreign trade out of which arise mutual misunderstandings and animosities. They will not be driven to the employment of sharp practices in order to support and maintain their own resources, they will not be so inclined to turn covetous eyes toward the resources of other nations.

"Such a condition will likewise give opportunity to devote our surplus wealth, not to the payment of high taxes, but to the financing of the needs of other nations. Our country has already through private sources recognized the requirements in this direction and has made large advances to foreign governments and foreign enterprises for the purpose of reestablishing their public credit and their private industry. By such action we have not only discharged an obligation to humanity, but have likewise profited in our trade relations and established a community of interests which can not but be an added security for the maintenance of peace. In so far as we can confirm other people in the possession of profitable industry, without injuring ourselves, we shall have removed from them that economic pressure productive of those dissensions, discords, and hostilities which are a fruitful source of war.

Settle War Debts

"It has been in accordance with these principles that we have made generous settlements of our foreign debts. The little sentiment of "live and let live" expresses a great truth. It has been thought wise to extend the payment of our debts over a long period of years, with a very low rate of interest, in order to relieve foreign peoples of the burden of economic pressure beyond their capacity to bear. An adjustment has now been made of all these major obligations and they have all but one been mutually ratified. The moral principle of the payment of international debts has been preserved. Every dollar that we have advanced to these countries they have promised to repay with some interest. Our National Treasury is not in the banking business. We did not make these loans as a banking enterprise. We made them to a very large extent as an incident to the prosecution of the war. We have not sought to adjust them on a purely banking basis. We have taken into consideration all the circumstances and the elements that attended the original transaction and all the results that will probably flow from their settlement. They have been liquidated on this broad moral and humanitarian basis. We believe that the adjustments which have been made will be mutually beneficial to the trade relations of the countries involved and that out of these economic benefits there will be derived additional guaranties to the stability and peace of the world.

"But if we are to maintain our position of understanding and good will with the nations abroad, we must continue to maintain the same sentiments at home. We are situated differently in this respect from any other country. All the other great powers have a comparatively homogeneous population, close kindred in race and blood and speech, and commonly little divided in religious beliefs. Our great Nation is made up of the strong and virile pioneering stock of nearly all the countries of the world. We have a variety of race and language and religious belief. If any of these different peoples fall into disfavor among us, there comes a quick reaction against the rest of us from the relatives and friends in their place of origin which affects the public sentiment of that country, even though it may not be actually expressed in the official actions of their Government. Such misunderstandings interfere with our friendly relations, are harmful to our trade, and retard the general progress of civilization. We all subscribe to the principle of religious liberty and toleration and equality of rights. This principle is in accordance with the fundamental law of the land. It is the very spirit of the American Constitution. We all recognize and admit that it ought to be put into practical operation. We know that every argument of right and reason requires such action. Yet in time of stress and public agitation we have too great a tendency to disregard this policy and indulge in race hatred, religious intolerance, and disregard of equal rights. Such sentiments are bound to react upon those who harbor them. Instead of being a benefit they are a positive injury. We do not have to examine history very far before we see whole countries that have been blighted, whole civilizations that have been shattered by a spirit of intolerance. They are destructive of order and progress at home and a danger to peace and good will abroad. No better example exists of toleration than that which is exhibited by those who wore the blue toward those who wore the gray. Our condition today is not merely that of one people under one flag, but of a thoroughly united people who have seen bitterness and enmity which once threatened to sever them pass away, and a spirit of kindness and good will reign over them all.

At Peace With All.

"The success with which we have met in all of these undertakings is a matter of universal knowledge. We are at peace with all the world. Those of this generation who passed through the World War have had an experience which will always cause them to realize what an infinite blessing peace is. We are in an era of unbounded prosperity. The financial condition of our National Government is beginning to be more easy to be borne. While many other nations and many localities within our own country are struggling with a burden of increased debts and rising taxes, which makes them seek for new sources from which by further taxation they can secure new revenues, we have made large progress toward paying off our national debt, have greatly reduced our national taxes, and been able to relieve the people by abandoning altogether to the future for our rewards and find in our lot nothing but sacrifices for the present. Now, here, today, we are all able to enjoy those benefits which come from universal peace and nation-wide prosperity.

"As these old soldiers, the living descendants of the spirit of Washington that made our country, go down toward the setting sun, representing the spirit of Lincoln, who saved our country, they will have the satisfaction of knowing that they are leaving behind them the same spirit, still undaunted, still ready to maintain in the future a more abiding peace and a more abounding prosperity, under which America can continue to work for the salvation of the world."

The Girl Scout laws are:

"A Girl Scout's honor is to be trusted. A Girl Scout is loyal. A Girl Scout's duty is to be useful and to help others. A Girl Scout is a friend to all, and sister to every other Girl Scout. A Girl Scout is courteous. A Girl Scout is a friend to animals. A Girl Scout obeys orders. A Girl Scout is cheerful. A Girl Scout is thrifty. A Girl Scout is clean in thought, word and deed."

The Girl Scout motto is: "Be Prepared." The Girl Scout slogan is "Do a good turn daily."

Girl Scouts were first organized in the United States in 1912 by Mrs. Juliette Low, a friend of Sir Robert Baden Powell, the father of all scouting, who urged and inspired the undertaking. The object of the organization is to give girls, through natural, wholesome recreation, those habits of mind and body which will make them useful, responsible women, ready and willing to take a definite part in home and civic affairs. The activities revolve around outdoor living, home-making, and community service, aiming through these at character development and happiness.

WELCOME SUMMER STUDENTS.

The sweet summer students,
All looking their best,
Are coming to college,
From north, south, east and west.

From each train arriving,
This last day of May
Comes a stream of fair students,
Sweet, handsone and gay.

Not exeraggerating,
When I say they are sweet,
For some of them even
Look too good to eat.

We welcome these fair ones,
And turn over the keys,
Of our big little city
To do as they please.

Provided however,
That they please to do right,
And are snug in their beds,
By ten thirty each night.

International Finance Object of New Treaty

Leaders Would Aid in Stabilization of Currency in France and Other Countries of Europe.

Washington, May 31.—A world financial and economic treaty of far-reaching possibility is in the course of negotiations at London and Paris, according to information obtained in official circles here today.

Benjamin Strong, governor of the federal reserve bank in New York, who, probably more than any other man controls the purse strings of American credit, and Sir Montague Norman, head of the Bank of England, and financial leaders from many of Europe's capitals are striving to perfect an arrangement aimed at international economic reconstruction.

Participants in the conference are anxious to complete the arrangement whereby money and discount rates of the central banks of Europe will be so adjusted that gold will begin to flow naturally to those countries financially in need of stronger resources. One direct object is to extend the French franc to parity without the employment of artificial stimulants, such as direct loans which have failed to accomplish this.

At the present time the franc is worth about 18 per cent of par and similar conditions exist in Italy, Belgium, Bulgaria, Greece and Russia where currency is at the lowest levels.

Miss Jennie Newlon of Rock Port, who attended the B. Y. P. U. convention at the Baptist Church, returned home yesterday. Her sister, Miss Ida Beth Newlon, remained for a longer visit with her aunt, Miss Lois Cummings.

James Goteh of Chariton, Ia., was in Maryville today.

ERRORS MIXED WITH THRILLS

REA WINS A "BOOTING" CONTESST FROM MERCHANTS.

TEN INNINGS TO DO IT

Rallies In Both Ninth And Tenth Innings Feature Game Which Ends 10 TO 8.

A comedy of errors was enacted on the Maryville ball grounds yesterday afternoon, the principal members of the cast being the Maryville and Rea booters of the baseball. When the final curtain call was made, the score favored Rea 10 to 8.

All the trimmings that go to make baseball the popular sport of America were present.

Errors, to the extent of 8 for Rea and 9 for the Merchants; ninth inning rallies and a tenth inning rally for good measure; hits galore, which totaled up in the forties; arguments with the umpires; and strikeouts at crucial stages of the game. In all eighteen men swung the bat without connecting.

The game started out peaceful-like, and along in the ninth Rea was out in front with a 5 to 2 score. Two men popped out for Maryville and then errors and hits combined to tie the score at 5 each. Rea resented the prolonging of the game and bunched sufficient hits to score 7 runs. The Merchants' rally fell short by 2 runs, although the winning run was on the bases when the left fielder snagged a high fly for the third out. Buhler pitched the first five innings for Maryville and Laughlin finished.

The lineups:

Rea: Nolin, ss; Hunt, c; Woodward, 1st; Mossick, cf; Duke, 3rd; Cobb, rf; Roberts, lf; Saunders, 2nd; E. Duke, p.

Maryville: Laughlin, 2nd; R. Mayes, ss; Brennan, 1st; Davis, cf; Booth, rf; C. Mayes, lf; H. England, c; Arthur, 3rd; Buhler, p. Smith for Davis at cf.

The lineup:

White Cloud: B. Dean, c; H. Dean, p; D. Myers, ss; C. Deakon, 1st b; Ed Howell, 2b; L. Myers, 3b; R. Stranch, rf; E. Dewight, cf; N. Nicholas, lf.

Bedison: P. McDermit, c; R. Gallagher, p; O. Oins, ss; J. Dougan, 1b; J. Rasco, 2b; B. Kendi, 3b; P. Gallagher, rf; R. Oins, cf; J. Pfeiffer, lf.

Interesting Game Ends With Score Of 8 to 3.—Same Teams Play Next Sunday.

The Arkoe-White Cloud team won an interesting game from the fast Parker team on the Parker diamond Sunday by the score of 8 to 3.

The game was featured by the sensational fielding of Wagner, Ashford and McDonald of Arkoe-White Cloud; McDonald being also the batting star of the game. Crandell and Ashford pitched a very steady game.

The batteries were: Parker: Wilder, Montgomery, and Winslow; Arkoe-White Cloud: Crandell, Ashford and Busby.

Kellogg And Hoover On First Day's Program—Ceremonies Are Staged In New Municipal Stadium.

Philadelphia, May 31.—The Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition celebrating 150 years of American Independence, opened in Philadelphia today with Secretary of State Kellogg and Secretary of Commerce Hoover, members of the national commission, appointed by President Coolidge, as orators of the day.

The two cabinet members were among the foreign, national and state officials attending the elaborate opening exercises of the celebration which will continue until December 1.

More than 250,000 persons attended the ceremonies which were staged in the new $3,000,000 municipal stadium, the largest structure of its kind in the world, which were begun by the booming of the presidential salute of 21 guns.

Flying craft flew over the crowds in Stadium bearing the standards of the armed forces of the government, while a chorus of 5,000 voices sang the anthem, "America." Copies of the message of President Coolidge, bidding the peoples of the world welcome to the Exposition, were dropped from the airplane. Mayor Kendrick read the message.

Secretary Kellogg, the President's personal representative, addressed the assemblage, followed by Secretary Hoover. Luncheon in the 20,000 seat Auditorium follows, and the visitors are escorted over the vast grounds.

Tonight, the inaugural ball followed by an elaborate pyrotechnic display will be held. Night flying by a squadron of airplanes using smoke screens and brilliant searchlights, will add to the spectacle.

Twenty-eight countries of the world officially through their governments or unofficially through industrial groups will take part in the Exposition: Great Britain, France, Germany, Sweden, Japan, Holland, Austria, Denmark, Hungary, Roumania, Czecho-Slovakia, Spain, India, Argentina, Brazil, Norway, Bolivia, Colombia, Cuba, Egypt, Persia, China, Tunis, Hati, Nicaraugua, Panama and Liberia.

President Coolidge has approved the exhibits of the civil, military and naval activities of the Government under the direction of the National Sesqui-Centennial Commission, which Secretaries Kellogg and Hoover head. There is also Congress' $2,186,500 appropriation for Federal participation.

Philadelphia's offering is a $8,720,000 appropriation besides vast sums expended on improvements to streets leading to the grounds. Her citizens have contributed $2,900,000.

Morning Burlington to Leave Here Later

Time Is Changed From 7:41 to 7:53 A. M.—Changing of Main Line Times Breaks Connections.

Passenger train No. 5 on the Burlington arriving here now at 7:41 a. m., will arrive 12 minutes later, or 7:53 a. m., effective next Sunday. No other changes wil lbe made in train times here.

On account of the changes of trains on the Burlington at St. Joseph, no connection will be made for Kansas City or for points east during the summer by passengers on this branch line.

Main line trains, St. Louis to Denver and Pacific coast, will have faster schedules and will shorten the time between St. Louis and Denver by about four hours. Denver train No. 15, which formerly left St. Joseph at 11:47 p. m. and arrived at Denver 5:15 the following evening, after Sunday will leave St. Joseph at 11:05 p. m., arriving in Denver at 1:15 p. m. On the return this train will leave Denver at 1:30 p. m., arriving at St. Joseph at 6:35 a. m.

The shortening of time of main line trains is to meet the strong competition between transcontinental lines from the East to Colorado and Pacific coast points. Two fast trains will be ha. put on next Sunday between Chicago and Denver through Creston and Oma-

Oliver October

By George Barr McCutcheon

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Oliver October Baxter, Ja., was born on a vile October day. His parents were prominent in the commercial, social and spiritual life of the town of Rumley. His father was proprietor of the hardware store. The night that Oliver October was born a gypsy queen reads his father's fortune and tells him what a wonderful future his son has before him, but after the reading, the gypsy becomes angry and leaves the house in a rage after telling Mr. Baxter that his son will never reach the age of thirty, and he will be hanged for a crime of which he is not guilty.

CHAPTER II.—Ten years elapse and Oliver's father is the owner of a business block in the town. Mrs. Baxter died when Oliver was nearing seven. Josephine Sage, wife of the minister, causes a sensation when she leaves Rumley to go on the stage. She becomes a "star" and later goes to London, where she scores a hit. Her daughter, Jane, and young Oliver become greatly attached to one another. After finishing college, young Oliver accepts a position in Chicago with an engineering company. He goes to China on an important mission for him firm. Upon his return he enlists in the Canadian army.

Chapter III.—The war over, Oliver returns to Chicago and is told by his employers that his services are no longer required. He returns home. He hears Jane is in love with Doctor Lansing. Jane and Oliver meet again. Oliver is reprimanded by his father for not getting another position. Oliver threatens to leave home.

CHAPTER IV.—Despite Mr. Baxter's pleading to Oliver to remain in Rumley, Oliver decides to accept a position in Chicago. Mr. Baxter accompanies Oliver through a swamp on the way to the Sage home. On the way they quarrel over Oliver's refusal to stay in Rumley. Mr. Sage tells Oliver his father fears the thing the gypsy predicted and wants his son to stay home, where he can watch over him. Oliver decides not to leave. Mr. Baxter fails to return home and is believed by some to have perished in the swamp. Oliver tells the authorities of the quarrel with his father, but they do not accuse him of having anything to do with his father's disappearance. Oliver takes charge of his father's business. Three months remain of the last year allotted to Oliver by the gypsy "queen." Uncle Horace Gooch announces himself as a candidate for state senator. Friends start a boom for young Oliver as candidate for state senator against old man Gooch. Jane forces Oliver to enter the race against his Shylock uncle.

CHAPTER V.—Oliver employs ditch diggers to drain part of the swamp where his father is supposed to have disappeared. Mr. Gooch's campaign managers urge him to withdraw from the race for senator, as they realize that Oliver is the most popular candidate. Mr. Gooch refuses to quit. Reverend Sage is happy when his actress wife cables him that she is sailing for home. Mr. Sage and his daughter go to New York to meet her. Mr. Gooch, convinced he would lose the election to Oliver, plans to try and intimidate him by demanding a thorough investigation into the disappearance of Oliver's father.

CHAPTER VI.—Hundreds of persons gather at the depot in Rumley to greet Mrs. Josephine Sage after an absence of 23 years. Jane notices Oliver is not in the throng at the station and is told by Sammy Parr that something of a political nature must have kept him away. Oliver goes to the Sage home.

CHAPTER VII.—The sheriff unwillingly serves papers on Oliver after the prosecutor refused to lay the matter of Mr. Baxter's disappearance before the grand jury as requested by Old Man Gooch, but acceded to his demand for an unofficial investigation. A few hot-heads in the town talk of tar and feathers for Mr. Gooch. The detectives start digging in the swamp for Mr. Baxter's body. Detective Malone tells Oliver that Pete Hines saw Oliver and his father sitting on a log the night that old man Baxter disappeared.

CHAPTER VIII.—Oliver threatens to strike Malone if he ever insinuates again that he had anything to do with the disappearance of his father. At a reception given at Oliver's home Oliver tells Jane he loves her. She promises to marry him. While out on the porch they hear mysterious footsteps. Oliver tells Jane Peter Hines boarded up his cabin in the swamp and had skipped town. They see a light in the cabin. Jane's engagement to Oliver as announced at the reception.

CHAPTER IX
Oliver May Withdraw

The ensuing three weeks were busy ones for Oliver. He was off "electioneering" by day and out speechmaking by night in district schoolhouses, in town halls and at mass meetings held at the county seat. The opposition press, stirred to action by the harassed Mr. Gooch, printed frequent reports of their search for old Oliver Baxter. They made sensation out of two or three minor discoveries—such as the finding of an old straw hat in one of the pools and the unearthing of a stout spade handle at the edge of the swamp not far from where the old man and his son had parted company.

Malone and his gang of Italian laborers were conducting the quest leisurely. The chief operative was bored—admitted it to Oliver and Mrs. Grimes and Lizzie Meggs and to the high heavens besides.

Mid afternoon of a windy day in October—it was the nineteenth, to be exact—he sat in the shelter of the kitchen wing, his chair propped against the wall, reading a book. He yawned frequently and seemed to be having great difficulty in keeping his pipe going. From time to time he dozed.

His partner, Charlie What's-his-name, was out in the swamp directing the efforts of eight or ten men who were sounding the scattered "mudholes" with long poles or digging at random in sections where the earth was sufficiently solid to bear the weight of man or beast. These men were now far out beyond the wire fence, within a hundred yards or so of the pond.

Mr. Malone's rest was disturbed shortly before three o'clock by the arrival of Oliver October. The two had become quite good friends.

"Say, Malone, would you mind calling off those gravediggers of yours for half an hour or so? I am expecting a committee here at three o'clock."

"Sure," said Malone. He got up slowly. "Hey!" he shouted over his shoulder. "Come out o' that! Knock off! It's four o'clock. In New York," he added in an aside to Oliver. "As I've said before, Mr. Baxter, it's all d—d foolishness digging up your place like this."

"Mrs. Grimes says the house is likely to fall down on our heads at any minute," said Oliver. "She notified me this noon that our hired girl, Lizzie Meggs, has decided to give up her place unless your men fill up some of the graves they've dug in my cellar."

"I'll have 'em put some planks over those holes," said the detective. "That reminds me. Now that they've stopped work under the porch, you might call off your watchdog. Give the old boy a little much-needed rest."

Oliver walked to the corner. Joseph Sikes was sitting on the back steps, his coat collar turned up about his throat, his aged back bent almost double, his chin resting on the mittened hands that gripped the head of his cane, his wrinkled head screwed up into a dogged scowl.

"Better step into the kitchen, Uncle Joe, and ask Lizzie for a cup of hot coffee. Work's over for today."

"The h—l it is," growled Mr. Sikes, without changing his position.

"Let him alone," said Malone, good-naturedly. "He's hatching out some new trouble for me. As for Fink, he's down there in the swamp from morning till night, supervising the whole blamed job."

"They are the best friends I've got in the world, Malone," said Oliver earnestly.

"Well, we'll clear you so's you can have your committee meeting in peace," said the detective.

"I have put it up to county headquarters, Malone," said Oliver, in an emotionless tone, "as to whether I should stay in the race or withdraw."

"What do you mean, withdraw?" asked the detective sharply.

"Well, it's only fair to give them a chance to put someone else on the ticket in my place if they feel—"

"Come off! You've got old Gooch licked to a standstill, so what the devil's got into you? We're not going to find your father's body, my boy."

"How do you know you are not going to find it?" was Oliver's surprising question.

Malone started. "What has caused you to change your tone like this, Baxter?"

"It's getting on my nerves, Malone—I don't mind saying so," said the younger man, frowning.

"I get you," said Malone, sympathetically. "It does give a fellow the shivers. But now about this getting off the ticket. Don't you do anything of the sort, Baxter."

"Malone, I can feel it in the air that a great many people believe I know what became of my father."

Mr. Sikes, who had shuffled around the corner, overheard the remark. He fairly barked:

"It don't make a particle of difference what they believe provided nobody is able to find the corpus delicti. They've got to dig up your father's corpus delicti before—What in thunder are you laughing at, sir?"

Malone, to whom this question was addressed in Mr. Sikes' most aggressive manner, put his hand to his mouth and succeeded in replying with as straight a face as possible:

"I've been reading an awfully funny book, Mr. Sikes. It's about detectives."

There is no telling what Mr. Sikes would have said to Mr. Malone about detectives in general if the delegation from headquarters had not arrived a minute or two later.

CATARACT CAN EASILY BE ELIMINATED

Impairment of the Sight by This Malady Need Not Be Endured, for a Skilled Surgeon Knows How to Correct It Painlessly.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND.

YOU will never have another pair of eyes. During a lifetime you have a lot of teeth, at least two full sets, fifty or sixty in all. But two eyes are all you have and all you ever will have.

It pays to take care of this precious pair of orbs. If you lose one eye you are miserable and unhappy over the loss. But to lose both is one of the most dreadful misfortunes in human experience.

There are many eye ailments, any one of which may wipe out vision. The eyeball may be normal in appearance, but the seeing power is gone. Or something may happen to glaze out the front of the eye, the cornea, even though all the parts back of this film are perfect in every particular.

Cataract is a condition found in advanced life, rarely before fifty-five or sixty. It is a perfectly painless thing, showing itself by loss of sight, but with no external sign of its presence.

A film, or "skin" covering the front of the eye is not cataract. Cataract is an opacity of the crystalline lens, back of the colored part of the eye, behind the pupil. It may be seen possibly as a silky, filmy, silvery substance in what should be the jet black pupil. But it takes sharp eyes to make it out without the aid of special instruments.

I want to make clear that cataract is not a growth on the outside of the eye. It isn't a disfiguring thing. But it gradually increases in density until all form is lost to the sight. Light and shadows may be seen by the victim, but nothing else.

As I have said, it produces no pain, redness or discomfort of any sort, except the impairment of sight. Fortunately one eye is spared long time after the other has lost its use.

Of all the serious eye troubles, cataract is about the most comfortable to have. It does not hurt and, when it is ready for operation, it can be removed by a delicate but painless operation. A local anaesthetic is used, so there is not the danger, not the discomfort of a general anaesthetic.

After the operation the patient is kept in bed three or four days, not because he is sick, but merely to keep him quiet. The bandages are left off after a few days and then with the fitting of spectacles, the thing is all over.

I don't want to make it seem too easy to get rid of cataract, but really it is not a formidable thing as operations go. There is no danger to life, usually no suffering, and no prolonged recovery.

If I had to choose some serious ailment I should take cataract.

General Andrews Is Real Military Man

Would Attain Objective At Any Cost And This Is One Reason For Drastic Executive Order.

By CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

Washington—General Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, is a military man through and through.

His idea of attaining an objective is to attain it at any cost.

Casting about for means of multiplying the number of dry agents in the land, he was struck by the thought, "Why not make state troopers and local policemen dry agents too?"

It was a bright hunch, which would have more than doubled the forces at his command—if there'd been no hitch.

Andrews is a soldier, and legality is a question the soldier doesn't have to consider. The less legality the better, in time of war. The commander who stops to inquire, "Is this stunt I'm about to pull off according to law?" is apt to get licked.

So the general put his scheme up to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, and Mellon, who's giving his dry czar a perfectly free hand, recommended it to President Coolidge, whereat the president signed an executive order authorizing the designation of state and local police as federal prohibition agents, to serve at $1 a year apiece and empowered to operate regardless of state lines.

Then the row started.

It seems that the order is of doubtful constitutionality. It certainly conflicts with a number of state laws.

Of course it enraged the wets. That was to have been expected. But it doesn't seem to have made much of a hit with the drys, either. In fact, several of them have denounced it roundly, in Congress.

POLAND STILL WITHOUT HEAD

PILSUDSKI FORMALLY DECLINES PRESIDENCY

MAJORITY NOT ENOUGH

Marshal's Refusal Creates Sensation Throughout Country—Adherents Desert His Cause

Warsaw, May 31—Marshal Pilsudski, having been elected president by the national assembly, today declined the office.

The marshal's decision is understood to be due to his belief that his majority was not sufficient to insure his carrying out his program without considerable difficulty.

Marshal Pilsudski had 49 votes more than the necessary majority of 243. His letter of declination declared:

"The figure of the murdered president Narutowitz is still too vivid in my memory; likewise the brutal assault upon him and his children."

The letter added that the constitution makes the president virtually powerless.

There was tremendous excitement in the Sejn when it was announced that Pilsudski had refused the election. The Sejn will meet again tomorrow in an effort to elect another president.

The declination of Marshal Pilsudski, which came as a sensation throughout all Poland, has aroused great furor and many adherents of the marshal are now reported ready to defeat his cause.

Charges Grudge Cause of Tinkham Resolution

Replying to Indirect Accusations, Michigan Representative Says Dry League Only Paid For Speech.

Washington, May 31.—Charges that a personal grudge was held by Representative Tinkham, Republican of Massachusetts, against him and the Anti-Saloon League were made by Representative Cramton, Republican of Michigan, in replying to an announcement by Tinkham that a resolution would be introduced to determine what fees and salaries the dry organization pays to members of Congress.

"Only once during my thirteen years in Congress," Cramton declared, "did I accept a fee of the Anti-Saloon League. That was for making a speech. I have no apologies for that or any other act of mine. Tinkham's resolution is based on his private grudge against me and his antagonism against the League."

Shriners Convention Opens at Philadelphia

250,000 Red Fezzes On Streets of Quaker City.—Dazzling Celebration Will Continue All Week.

Philadelphia, May 31.—Two hundred and fifty thousand red fezzes were on the streets of the Quaker City today as Shriners from all parts of North America gathered for the 52nd Imperial Council Session of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

All this week the Shriners will indulge in one of the most dazzling celebrations ever witnessed here. The city is a huge playground, with multi-colored electric lights strung along the principal streets, colorful banners flying everywhere.

Three blocks of the city's widest street have been converted into the "Arabian Way" along which are 75 huge columns decorated with Arabian motifs and figures of legendary Arabian monsters.

The walks of the "Arabian Way" are covered with sand to complete the illusion of a desert. A troup of 50 Shriners in full regalia, mounted on camels, will guide and escort a group of bona fide Arabian dancers.

Celebrations and street parades will occur night and day until the convention ends, on Friday, providing additional color for the opening week of the Sesqui-Centennial exhibition.

On a number of railroad sidings in various parts of the city, several of the 130 temples gathered here are making their homes in sleeping cars, in which are all the comforts of a modern hotel, including baths, telephones, restaurants and smoking rooms.

Several hundred Shriners from New England are living on board a steamer that brought them from Boston.

The Shriner's Temple from Hawaii traveled the greatest distance to attend the convention, about 5,000 miles.

Son Lynched in War; German Father Sues

Baker of Dresden Demands $5,000 Damages in Suit in Federal Court at Springfield, Ill.

St. Louis, May 31.—An echo of the World War will be heard in the federal court at Springfield, Ill., when the case of Heinrich Karl Prager, Dresden, Germany, who seeks damages for his son, lynched by a mob, in 1918.

Gustav Detjen, attorney for Prager, has announced June 7 as the date when the case will come up for a hearing. He said that both Collinsville, Ill., and Madison county authorities have refused to settle out of court. Under the state law, the lineal descendants of a person who has been lynched may receive up to $5,000 if they are able to prove they were dependent for support, even in part, on the person lynched.

Detjen claims that labor troubles rather than Prager's alleged seditious utterances, led to the lynching. Praeger, who is a poor baker, will not come here for the trial.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Anderson and daughter, Mary May, of Shenandoah, Ia., came Saturday to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. John Green and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Cox of the Harmony neighborhood. Mr. Anderson was formerly cashier at the Burlington freight office in Maryville.

W. F. Sturm of Belleville, Ill., arrived yesterday morning for a few days visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sturm.

FLAG TO DROP ON THURSDAY

TIME FOR FILING FOR PRIMARY ENDS THEN.

INTEREST VERY LIGHT

Few Contests Are Expected, Race for County Clerk Being Only One So Far With More Than One Entry.

Thursday is the last day for filing for the primary election to be held on Tuesday, August 3, according to Fred W. Smith, county clerk. The filing date is fixed by law at sixty days before the primary.

Interest in the coming primary is lacking, according to party leaders. So far only a few candidates have filed and only one contest for office has developed, there being three candidates for the Democratic nomination for county clerk.

It is expected a few candidates will file at the last minute. However, party leaders think the coming primary here will be the lightest and with fewer contests than ever before.

The candidates filed up to this afternoon were:

Representative—Wm. Job for the Democratic nomination; W. H. Burr for the Republican nomination.

Probate Judge—Jesse F. Robertson, present incumbent, for the Democratic nomination.

Prosecuting Attorney—George Pat Wright, present incumbent, for the Democratic nomination.

Circuit Clerk—Amos Sprecher for the Democratic nomination.

Recorder—Mrs. Mamie Clardy, present incumbent, for the Democratic nomination.

County Clerk—Ova C. Goff, Fred Gaddis and Fred Wright for the Democratic nomination; Alfred Walton for the Republican nomination.

Other county offices to be filled are:

Presiding judge of the county court, judge of county court north district, judge of the county court south district.

John F. Tulloch of Barnard filed his candidacy as committeeman on the Democratic ticket from Grant township.

Colonel Paul Newlon, Colorado, Denied Pay

Adjutant-General Must Take Case to Supreme Court, Is Ruling—Mother Lives at Clearmont.

Adjutant-General Col. Paul P. Newlon of Colorado, son of Mrs. Flora Newlon of Clearmont and brother of Fred Newlon of Maryville, must go to the supreme court of the state of Colorado to obtain his salary, the state military board ruled recently. A dispatch from Denver, Colo., had the following:

Adjutant General Col. Paul P. Newlon, must go to the supreme court if he desires to obtain his salary from May 15 to January 1, next, the state military board ruled at a special meeting held in the governor's office. The decision and action of the military board came as a result of an opinion by Judge Advocate Lewis Deriggs Mowry, Denver attorney, that Colonel Newlon was a member of the national guard and that the national guard regulations provided an order assigning a man to active duty before he could be paid.

Judge Advocate Mowry, however, insisted that the opinion as expressed by him was the legal opinion and not his private one. As a result of this opinion, the board voted to refuse further approval for pay for Colonel Newlon.

The action of the board resulted from a meeting last Monday, held in the governor's office at which time Col. A. I. Hart, commander of the One Hundred and Fifty-seventh infantry of the Colorado national guard and senior officer of the guard, declared that in view of the lack of order assigning Colonel Newlon to active duty and that he had none, he would ask the board to approve a pay voucher for him.

This resulted in an investigation which, according to members of the board, revealed that no such order ever had been issued by former Governor Shoup at the time of his appointment of Colonel Newlon, as adjutant general succeeding Col. P. J. Hamrock, now a member of the state civil service commission.

Colonel Newlon declared he had an affidavit from former Governor Shoup in which he declares he ordered the colonel to active duty, but he declined to present it at the board meeting. Colonel Newlon after the military board meeting declared his future course still was undetermined.
